EFHS Music Makers

Foreword

Music, Music, Music—what does school music mean to us? It means classes in which we learn the fundamentals: the scale, how to read notes, and how to sing with others without too many sour notes. It means becoming a part of the Intermediate Chorus—the first group to which many belong.

To others, music means joining the Band; spending long hours practicing and drilling for perfect formations and performances. It means being a part of a smooth, smartly-dressed aggregation which supplies the pep at rallies and games and parades.

As we become upperclassmen, music may mean joining the Warrior Choir, the Undergrads, or the Dance Band. Or it may mean becoming an accompanist or a solo performer. So much for the musicians; music also means much to the rest of us. It means the feeling of pride that stirs us when the Band marches onto an opponent's football field; it means the thrill we feel when the Band heralds a touchdown or encourages one; it means holding our heads a little higher while watching a parade as our major and majorettes step into view.

Also, as music lovers, we thrill to the beautiful music our choral groups provide as they usher in the Christmas season or present an evening's concert.

And so, it is surely fitting that we pay tribute to the department responsible for these most exciting moments.

Motivate Morale

"Musical training is a more potent instrument than any other, because rhythm and harmony find their way into the inward places of the soul."

Our Music Men

Mr. Iacobucci and Mr. Farina confer over the score for a coming production.

When the 1960 Eli-Mon staff met to decide to whom their yearbook would be dedicated, the question was asked, "Who has done the most for the good of the school in the past few years?" Although it was agreed that many have helped in creating the school we have today, there were two men whose work seems to permeate every corner.

We talked of how we thrilled to the music of our band—even their practice sessions; of how well they represented us at sports events and at concerts.

We mentioned the pleasure we knew when the choral groups entertained us at Christmas, at special assemblies, or at the lovely spring and fall musicales.

Soon we were all thinking the same thing—there was just one possible dedication; so, with our sincere thanks, we gratefully present the 1960 Eli-Mon to our Music Men, Mr. Walter Iacobucci and Mr. Joseph Farina.

"That note's worth 2000 demerits!"

"Don't just stand there — do something!"

We are proud that our building houses the offices of the entire school district. Although we know it isn't polite to peek, we do sometimes glance in the windows as we hurry down the hall, and we never fail to be impressed by the efficient, active look of these rooms. Dr. Storer is always surrounded by important-looking financial ledgers while Dr. Faulk is busy on the phone or in conference. Mrs. Lacey and the other women are typing, filing, taking dictation or laboring over big complicated machines. In short—all are working—and for us!

Across the hall, we walk into the high school office to leave our announcement and are again amazed at the amount of work being done. Back in Mr. Shaver's office, there is a small meeting in session; Mr. Benedetti has just said, "Good Morning" and is ready to give the day's notices; Pat and Marie are answering phones and filing mail in the teachers' mail boxes; Dr. Burke is showing new books to a department chairman; and everything is in readiness for the day. Although we don't see much of Mr. Furno or Mr. Revetta, we know each is in his own office preparing the way for the boys and girls who will take our places some day soon.

Guidance: A Major Theme

MISS VIRGINIA W. REDMAN,
B.A., Wilson; M.Ed.,
University of Pittsburgh

MR. DAVID E. DOUGLAS,
B.S., Juniata; M.Ed.,
University of Pittsburgh

Our guidance counselors, Miss Virginia Redman and Mr. David Douglas, are two of the most important people we meet in our high school careers. Their job is to get to know as much as possible about each student, then to put that knowledge to work for us. This is accomplished through a testing program and through personal interviews. They coordinate their knowledge with that of our teachers, parents, and administrators to provide the best possible type of education for us.

Their other duties include arranging for special classes, keeping us aware of scholarship possibilities, planning for college and career conferences, conducting follow-up surveys of graduates, and often attempting to solve the personal problems of students.

Both Miss Redman and Mr. Douglas give unselfishly of their time and energies to help the students of EFHS.

Guidance Activities

Miss Redman congratulates Larry Dillen, alternate, and Elizabeth Hodgson, winner, of the Odd Fellows United Nations Contest. This resulted in a trip for Liz to the United Nations and other spots of historical interest in the New York area.

Miss Redman visits an English class to discuss the high school record and the testing program provided for all students.

Dan Dansak thanks Dr. Foil Miller, one of the speakers at Career Night sponsored by the guidance department.

Evaluation Committee:

This group of distinguished educators who visited our school from November 16 to November 19, 1959, were very pleasant and helpful as they carried on their evaluation. FRONT: Mrs. Mary Erdman, Braddock; Miss Marian Groetzinger, Beaver Falls; Mrs. Virginia Crawford, Monaca; Mr. P. F. Manning, Munhall; Dr. Michael Serene, Ambridge. ROW 2: Mr. Curtis Clay, North Braddock; Mr. Paul Lewis, Clairton; Mr. Ray Ronco, Scottdale; Mr. Reginald Greaser, Bedford; Mr. Regis Shalley, Baldwin. ROW 3: Dr. Guy Harriger, Butler; Mrs. Mary Gennaula, Dormont; Miss A. Jeannette Broadfoot, Har-Brack. BACK: Miss Helen Smith, Pittsburgh; Mr. Edgar Holtz, Penn Hills; Mr. Budd Stewart, Parker; Mr. James Porter, California; Mr. Thomas Knorr, Meadville. Not pictured: Mr. Eugene Bacha, St. Vincent.

Much of the groundwork for evaluation was done by these department chairmen assisted by Dr. Burke and Mr. Benedetti. SEATED: Mrs. West, Miss Lauder, Mr. Douglas, Dr. Burke, Mrs. Brandfass, Miss Rubino. STANDING: Mr. Moreschi, Mr. Escott, Mr. Posa, Miss Scott, Mrs. Allen, Mr. Hathaway, Mr. Ciavarra, Mr. Benedetti.

Department Chairmen:

MISS ROSE RIPEPI, B.S., California S.T.C.; Monongahela; plane geometry, class adviser.

MISS ALICE GOLEMBIEWSKI, B.S., Waynesburg; Republic; chemistry, math; Chemistry Club.

MR. RICHARD LESNAK, B.S., Carnegie Tech; Elizabeth; math; class adviser.

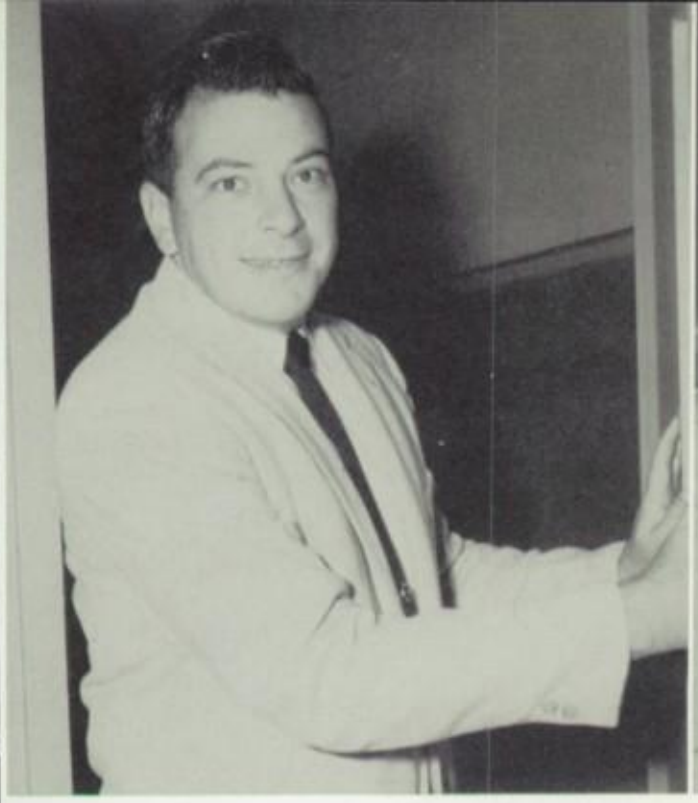
Mathematics

Our department operates on the premise that the courses offered are important to each individual. It is our objective to provide a program of studies which will meet the needs, interests and abilities of every student. There is a variety of courses which permit those with special talents to expand their knowledge of the field.

MR. RONALD NOVAK, B.S., California S.T.C.; West Brownsville; math, assistant football coach.

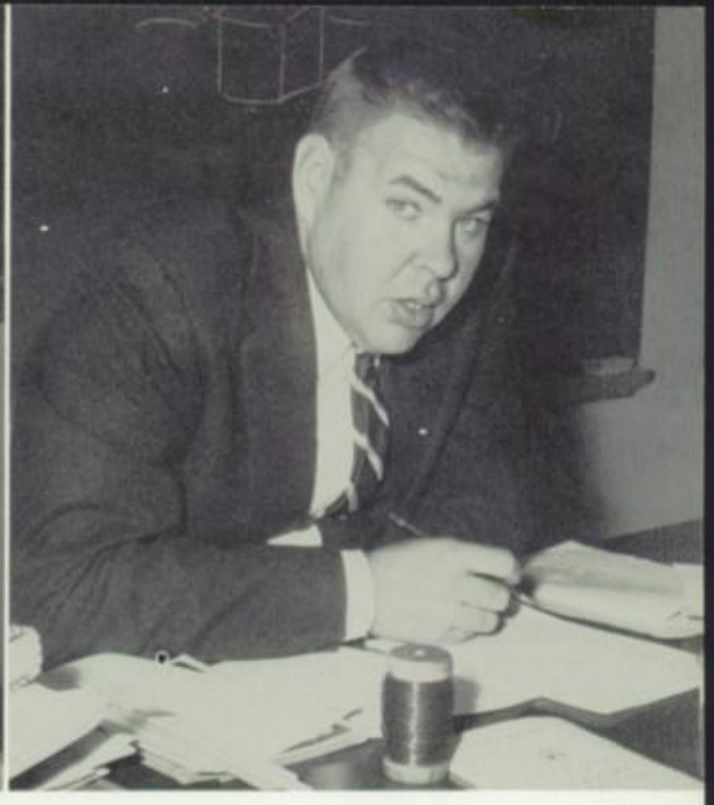
MR. JOHN MORESCHI, B.S., California S.T.C.; M.Ed., University of Pittsburgh; Monongahela; math; department chairman; Student Council.

MISS SANDRA DANKO, B.S., Slippery Rock S.T.C.; Glassport; math; class adviser.

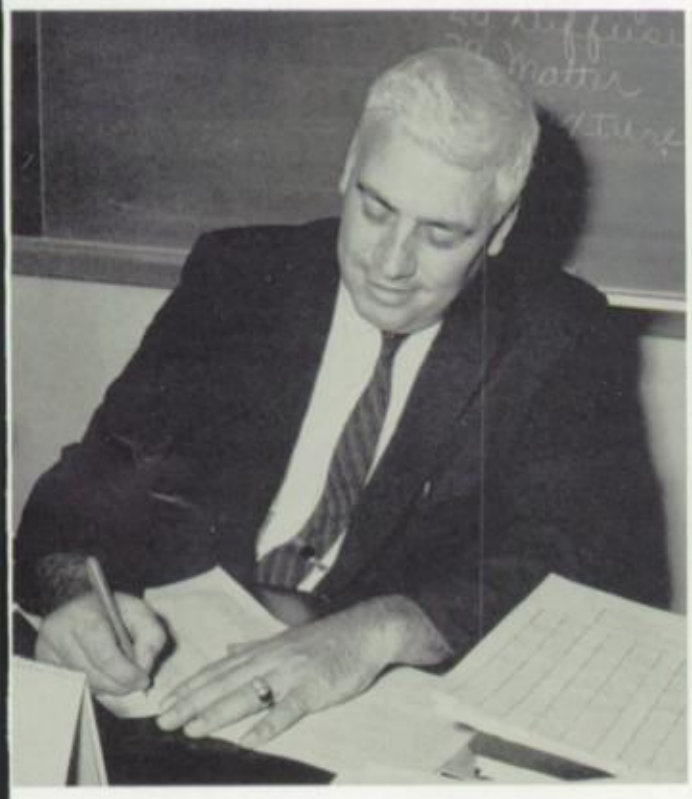


MR. EDWARD BLACKA, B.S., California S.T.C.; Charleroi; science, football coach.

MR. FRANK CIAVARRA, B.Ed., Duquesne; McKeesport, science, department chairman, Radio Club.



MR. GEORGE ECHARD, B.A., U. of Pgh.; Elizabeth; science; Photography Club; class sponsor.



MR. FRANK STONER, JR., B.S., Penn State; Scottdale; science, golf coach, weather station, visual aids.

MR. CHARLES TRENK, B.S., California S.T.C.; Belle Vernon; science, Chess Club.

MR. BERNARD McNISH, B.S.; M.Ed., U. of Pgh., Elizabeth, science.

MRS. LOUISE ROSLUND, B.S., U. of Pgh.; Elizabeth; science, Biology Club.

In the science department we hope to develop a respect for exact scientific truths among the students and to promote scientific learning so as to indicate the advancement of our time in terms of service to (instead of destruction of) mankind.

One of the busiest spots in school is the library where we are custodians of over 4200 books. This year we processed 1100 new books and prepared over 200 volumes for the science library.

The art department aims to build an interest among students for an appreciation and need for art in their school and community. A group of our students take part in an after-school program intended to give opportunities for enriched art experiences.

(The work of the music department is covered in another section of this book.)

Homemaking

MRS. VIRGINIA JOANNE WEST, B.S., Indiana S.T.C.; Clairton; home economics; F.H.A. sponsor; department chairman.

MRS. PAULINE GREEN, B.A., U. of Illinois; McKeesport; home economics; F.H.A. sponsor.

Best of everything always,
V. Joanne West

In both the homemaking and industrial arts departments we strive to help students gain knowledge, skills, and appreciation which they can use in their own homes, now and for the future.

MR. JAMES HATHAWAY, B.S., California S.T.C.; Belle Vernon; industrial arts, department chairman.

Industrial Arts

MR. CLARE THOMPSON, B.S., California S.T.C.; Blythedale; industrial arts, Stage Crew sponsor.

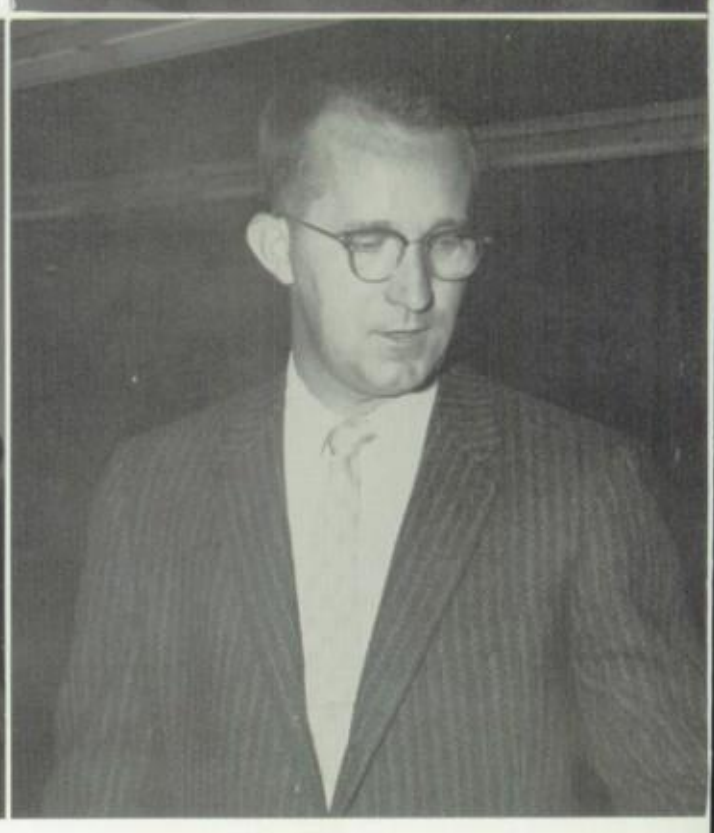
MR. JOSEPH PECOSH, B.S.; California S.T.C.; Hiller, graphic arts.



– Language Laboratory –

This year has seen a fine addition to the Foreign Language Department—a Language Laboratory which will enable students studying a foreign language to perfect their abilities in speaking the language. Soon classes such as those shown at the left will all be held in the new laboratory, like the one shown above.

Classes:

Scores of Scholars

As each class enters EFHS it contributes to the harmony of the school which is ever changing with the changing classes. The freshmen sound clear, fresh notes never heard before as they join the three remaining classes from the previous year; they add new notes, new tones, new rhythms. Sophomores contribute challenging sounds as they begin to feel more comfortable and begin to gain a grasp of what they can contribute to the whole melody. Juniors lend predominant notes of sureness and clarity as they take on positions of respect and authority; their prom theme supplies a dominating motif. Seniors must take the responsibility for combining all elements into a smooth rhythm that will reflect the individuality of all, yet be melodious.

CIRCUMSTANCE

Seniors: Never B♯; Never B♭; Always B♮

Mr. Similo, adviser; Larry Landini, president; Wayne Candelore, vice president; Carol Evans, secretary; Regis Urbanovich, treasurer; Jackie Zadroga, class historian; Mrs. Sweet, adviser.

As we, the Senior Class of 1960, graduate, we remember the wonderful times we've experienced in high school. From that first exciting day when we were freshmen to our graduation day four years later, many incidents come to mind.

Can we ever forget our first day as high school students, the pep rallies, the football, basketball, and baseball games, the many dances and record hops, or the Junior Prom?

We'll even remember those semester exams, the research papers, and report cards.

Our whole senior year is to be remembered as that last exciting and wonderful year. Each day brought something new: class rings, senior pictures, class day, the senior banquet.

Most important, we'll always recall the friends we made whom we'll cherish forever, the teachers who helped us and encouraged us in every way, and the advisers who guided us in our decisions.

The senior play, "Dear Ruth," will long be remembered by the class of 1960.

Juniors:
Whistle While You Work

Junior officers and sponsors meet to draw up big plans: SEATED: Dave Nelson, president; Larry Pryor, vice-president; Sandy DeJoise, treasurer; Margie Hager, historian. STANDING: Mrs. Nicholl, Betty Jo Anjeski, secretary; and Mr. Chomas.

The junior class, the largest in the school, is probably the busiest. Between chemistry tests, American history notebooks, and book reports for English class; the juniors manage to wedge into schedules an extensive co-curricular program. Their interests vary from F.T.A. to football, but when they are interested, they are active. Their biggest social contribution is the Prom. The way they worked and the fun they had, they will never forget. The stardust in their eyes, the silks, satins, and tuxedos helped make a perfect evening. It was really "a little bit of heaven."

Bernie and Dan are two juniors with a well-developed interest in science.

Sophomores: Getting to Know You

"Getting to know you; getting to know all about you—" is an appropriate theme for the sophomore class. Through participation in club activities, attendance at ball games, and coming to dances, sophomores are becoming a larger part of the school. Though this is only their second year at Betsy High, the feeling of strangeness and uncertainty has left them.

One may notice the average sophomore walking through the halls apparently without a care in the world; but under this air of indifference there is a heart of sincere ambition to prepare for the following years as an upperclassman.

One of the major social events in the sophomore year is the Promenade for which they plan eagerly.

Yes, sophomores are "getting to know you, getting to like you, —and to hope you like them, too."

The freshman class has spent their year joining clubs, meeting new people, and getting acquainted with a new kind of school life. They have done well in making their adjustment, in spite of a few suggestions from upperclassmen.

In the fund raising department the freshmen have already begun building up their treasury. They have had charge of concessions at a football game, sponsored the freshman get-acquainted dance and helped the Easter Bunny with their Easter candy sales. With a beginning like this they may well be our richest class, a title of some distinction.

E.F.H.S.'s youngsters have struck a new note with their abounding enthusiasm and lively school spirit.

Sports:
The Teams Add Tempo

It is in the sports program that we find the strong robust music of the school. Just as athletes are spurred on to ever greater efforts through the stirring music played and sung by the other students, the entire school surges with spirit and pride as its athletes race the length of the football field for a last minute, game winning touchdown; dribble madly down the court for a backhand perfect shot through the basket tying up the game; pitch a no-hit baseball game; or play a perfect below-par game of golf.

It is this music that provides the much-needed seasonal "lift."

The Warriors opened the 1959 football season with a loss to McKees Rocks. The next three games were well-deserved victories for the team. Five losses followed, closing the season with three wins and six losses. The highlight of the football season was the exciting, hard-fought victory over Glassport, our traditional rival. The game, scoreless until the last few minutes, was won when a punt was blocked by Joe Slavick resulting in a two-point safety for the Warriors. The district coaches recognized the ability of the Warriors when they elected Jon Shank to the All-District team.

The Red and Black basketeers opened the 1959-1960 season with a bang, showing determination and skill. Because of the W.P.I.A.L. deadline of November 15, before which Jumpin' Joe Slavick became 19, the sizzling defeats handed to Charleroi and Donora became forfeitures.

In spite of this crushing blow, the Warriors suffered only two losses in exhibition play. Persistence and successful execution of strategy brought E-F squeaking to victory during the holiday tournament held at Penn Hills.

The Warrior Champions avenged their former loss to Bethel during tourney competition on December 26, 28, and 29. The team's enthusiasm and skill also proved to be effective against Section Six opponents.

Out to the Game

Rich Pagliari

The 1959 Warrior baseball squad ended the season with a successful record of eight wins and four losses. Coach Come's nine opened the season with a victorious score of 6—5 over the Clairton Bears.

However, the highlights of the season were the two straight no-hit, no-run, perfect games pitched by Warrior ace, Lou Steinkopf. The first of these occurred on April 16, when the Warriors defeated East McKeesport on the home field with a 4—0 score.

Lightning struck again in the Warriors' next game on April 20, against Wilmerding on the losers' diamond. The Wildcats found themselves defenseless against E-F's powerful machine, the Warriors returning with a 5—0 victory.

Eugene Aldrighetti

The EFHS golf team, led by George Naperatz, copped the Section 6 title by winning 6 out of 7 games. They have participated in inter-section matches for the past two years and they have won the section title both years. Other players were: Dave Bowen, Eugene Aldrighetti, Norman Rack, and Jim Boyd. Because of George Naperatz's achievements he was awarded the Outstanding Senior Trophy for golf.

G.A.A.

The Girls' Athletic Association provides a well rounded schedule of extra-curricular sport activities for all interested high school girls. In addition, they put on half-time gymnastic exhibitions at basketball games and a complete gym show in the spring. The activities include archery, table tennis, golf, badminton, basketball, tumbling, volleyball, softball, and bowling. Providing healthful activities for the development of the body in coordination with the mind is their main objective. All the members learn to work with others as well as learning to work better.

Lettermen

The Lettermen's Club, under the direction of Mr. Anthony Rubino, is made up of all boys who have received a letter for basketball, baseball, football, or golf. The purpose, therefore, is to show recognition of all sports in our school. Each year the Lettermen's Club sponsors the Teachers vs. Seniors basketball game and the Varsity vs. Junior Varsity football game. They use the money earned by these activities to buy jackets for the Seniors. This group is getting larger each year and it is a group of whom we can be proud.

Activities:

Combo of Clubs

A pleasing personality; a well-poised boy or girl; these are the traits EFHS encourages through school organizations. Many choose the Chorus or Band which provides mood music during pep assemblies, concerts, and at the games. Others choose one of the many other clubs which gives social pleasure and more opportunities to work with others. Still other students are attracted by the class-connected clubs that enable them to enrich their academic program. Belonging to a club is to a student what perfect balance is to a musical composition. Whether it is the Student Council which represents the voice of the student body or the "Warrior" which heralds the news, our school organizations are keenly felt in the lives of the students at EFHS.

Friendly, hardworking students under the direction of Mr. Iacobucci devote their time and skill to making our band the center of our fast growing school spirit. They spend innumerable hours practicing precision marching drills and special arrangements of the "Warrior Rock," "Fight Song," "Warrior Pep Song," "Warrior Victory," our "Alma Mater," and many others.

Our thirteen piece EFHS Dance Band which plays for many school affairs, is featured in the Pops Concert and plays a benefit for the Western Pennsylvania School of the Blind as well as playing outside engagements.

Mr. Farina leads the Warrior Choir through "She Walks in Beauty." Marlene Rudberg is the accompanist.

Brack and Jenny share a tender moment.

Tension mounts as the villain and Brack come face to face.

The Warrior Choir fills the auditorium with harmonious sounds. Last year, for the very first time, the chorus presented an operetta entitled "Down in the Valley," by Kurt Weill. Directed by Mr. Farina, the operetta was presented on May 8 and 9. The first part of the program was a concert consisting of several songs ranging from classical and religious to humorous arrangements. The second part was the operetta. This was a musical drama based on beautiful folk songs, such as: "The Lonesome Dove," "The Little Black Train," "Sourwood Mountain," and, of course, the title song.

Debate Club

Now that it's over and they have chalked up another "win," Gene, Barbara, Ron, John Kerklo, Martha, and Ernest Marraccini meet to "recap" the situation.

The Debate Club which is just three years old is open to all students with A or B averages who want to acquire training in logical thinking, a good viewpoint on current events, public speaking experience and confidence. They have participated in interscholastic debates and tournaments with such local schools as: Norwin, Thomas Jefferson, Greensburg, Monessen, Jeannette, McKeesport, Connellsville. Blairsville, and Penn Joint.

"May I help you?" These are welcome and familiar words to both students and faculty members who are confronted by problems solvable only by the right book or magazine article. Student librarians are always ready and able to help.

Art Club

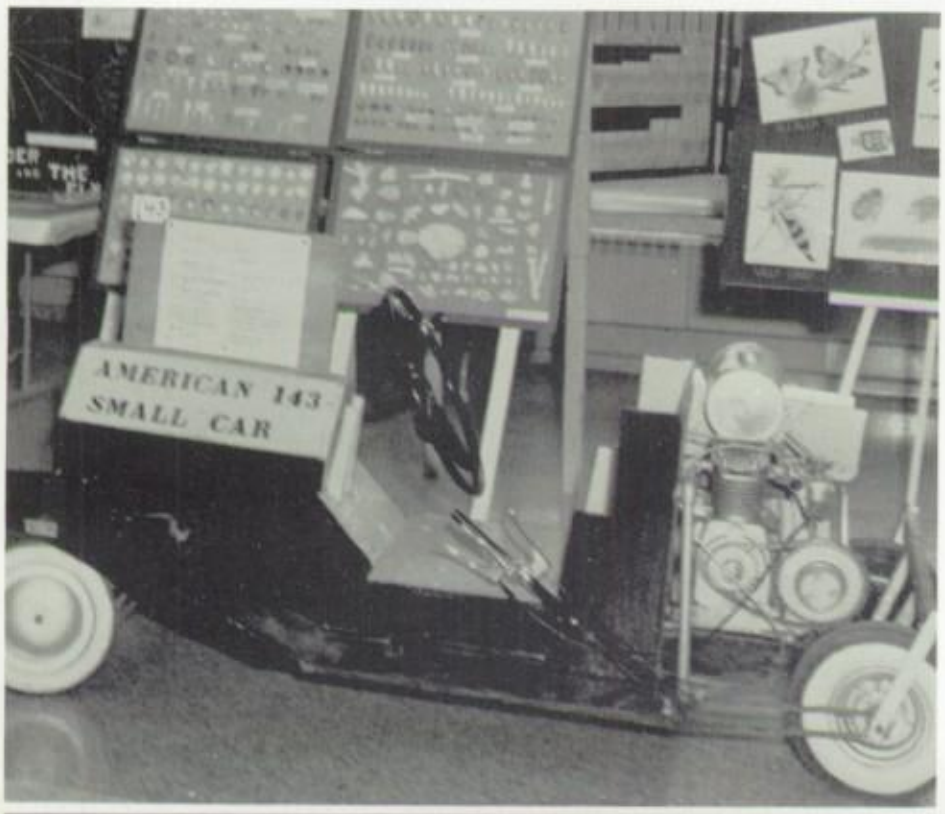
Art Club members never miss a chance to improve the appearance of either school or community by using their talents. They provide seasonal decorations, sponsor an art show, and lend talented hands to all who need them.

Marie Lison, vice president; Barbara Couchenour, secretary; Janet Collins, president; Mr. Escott, adviser; Jim Werner, publicity.

Finishing touches are added to the beautiful float that a few hours later won the first prize in the Lions Club Halloween parade. The theme was an artist's palette with each color represented by a beautiful girl in costume.

1959 Science Fair

The stage goes scientific.



The school science fair was one of the most colorful 1959 events. Five of the student exhibitors later won awards at the Buhl Planetarium Fair for their entries. Jim Knight won the Buhl Science Craft award for his model of a Van de Graaff generator; Bernard Hynde won the Joseph Horne award for his water testing and conditioning exhibit; Jim Shaver took the U. S. Steel award for his exhibit on corrosion testing; Richard Bondi received honorable mention in engineering for his work on stroboscopic effect; and JoAnn Gallo won honorable mention in biology for her exhibit on the effect of radiation on barley. Mr. Ciavarra and Mrs. Roslund were honored as teachers of these winners.

Y-Teens

Striking a high note in the rank of clubs is the Y-Teens. This club is mainly based on service to all. As one of the main projects this year, the Y-Teens greeted the teachers on the first day with apples. Also another project is helping to carry the books for the handicapped students.

Of course, the Y-Teens and advisers don't spend all their time working. In the pictures below are some of the entertaining moments at freshman initiation last fall. Of course, the annual dance called "Whispering Winds" was held in March and also a fashion show with many new spring fashions from Cox's.

This April, the Y-Teens of the area sponsored a trip to New York City. For the girls who went this was a wonderful experience to gain knowledge about the service which is needed in the United States today.

Unsung Heroes of EFHS

Stage Crew

Mr. Thompson, adviser; Rodger Menozzi, treasurer; Bob Frantz, president; Dale Maurer, secretary.

Without the able backstage help of the boys on the stage crew there could be no stage performances. They not only tend to the scenery, backdrops, curtain, etc., but also provide the beautiful special lighting and sound effects which make the difference between a routine and an artistic performance.

Cafeteria Aides

Fran McBride, Ruth Vidil, Nellie Oatman, Linda Carr.

These girls help in the cafeteria every day at noon and for special dinners to keep things going smoothly. They keep the tables clean and carry equipment to and from the kitchen so as to make things more pleasant for those who are eating.

"Who's this one for?"

One of EFHS newest organizations is the Pep Club. Their purpose is to create and encourage constructive school spirit. The ideals in scholastic and sports leadership as set forth by the club have done a great deal to make school life more enjoyable.

The activities department is headed by an energetic group with big ideas. They have taken active part in pep rallies, provided bus transportation for away games, and sponsored a Valentine dance.

"Have a heart!"

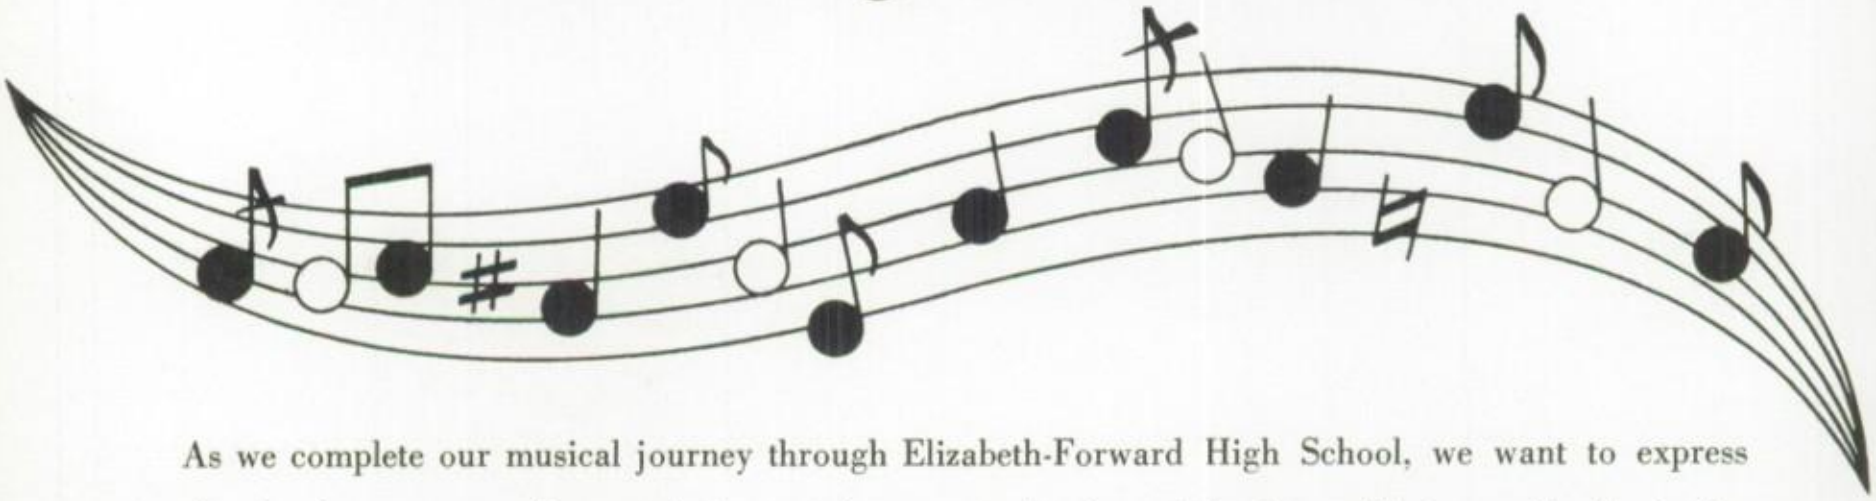
The Song Is Ended,



As we complete our musical journey through Elizabeth-Forward High School, we want to express a deeply sincere note of appreciation to the many who have helped us. First, our thanks to the faculty and administration for granting us picture-taking time; to our very good friend Tony Del Vecchio from Strem Studios for being so cooperative and so patient as he met our demands for pictures; to Gene Burke from Taylor Publishing Company for his many constructive ideas and encouraging words; to the board of education, our patrons, and to the student body for financial support; and of course, to our parents for allowing us to be late for dinner so many evenings as we dashed to meet deadlines.

And so we leave you, tired but happy, at the conclusion of an effort that has given us—and we trust will give you—many pleasant hours.

YEARBOOK EDITORS: Tom Brown, Carol Kamp, Carole McCarthy, Janet Booth, Jackie Zadroga, Louise Kartesz, and Ruthann McNish take a well-earned rest after the last page is finished and the last dollar paid.

Verna,

To a very sweet and nice girl I have know for a long time (12 years) Remember all the fun we had in Bunola Grade School, and Mrs. Cahans Party. Although I wasn't there I head about. Always stay as kind and nice, and also keep that personality that matches your smile and that certain gleam in your eyes. Don't forget the Senior Banquet and how much fun we had at the Eat and Park. Good luck and may you succeed in everything you ever attempt to do. Alway one of your classmates, I hope.
